

On marriage anniversary

We were young once upon a time
Colorful was life, though
Photos were black n white
We were young once upon a time.

Eyes spoke, communicative was silence
Photos were pasted in the albums
Hidden were the words behind them
We were still young at that time

Happiness was between us,
Sorrows were rarely shared
Young were hearts, not getting bored
Aspirations calling, nothing scared

Now albums are on the facebook
Shower of likes & smileys to look
Brings heart-felt joy,
Child-like feeling of getting a toy

As decades pass, we need them more

More we learned to share happiness with all

More friends & nature online;

Brought back college life!

Younger generation bright & warm

Working & working is the norm

Still in touch in the informal way

We find them closer every day

Teach us expressions of love &

Technology for that

We find ourselves young again in multicolour world of you all.
